From the world of Penny and the Golden Notebook · Good & Faithful Books

Dear parents and grandparents

Kids learn about money whether we plan it or not, often from ads and screens. This pack helps your child learn it from a story instead, and from conversations with you.

In Penny and the Golden Notebook, nine-year-old Penny gets an old leather notebook from her Grandma Rose. It has seven wax seals. Under the first one are just three words: Problems are gold. Penny discovers that people pay you when you help them with a real problem, and that money is a receipt for helping someone, never the main thing.

This pack lets your child step into Penny's world. Print the pages you like. Do them together or let your child explore alone. The conversation cards at the end work great at dinner or on a car ride.

Talk about it: which of these words describes someone in your family? Which one would you like to grow in?

Help Penny find Cinnamon!

Mrs. Lee's golden retriever has run away again. Can you find the way through Oak Harbor to bring him home?

START

Cinnamon is here!

Lemonade Stand Math

Penny and Emma keep track of every cent. Can you help them? Show your thinking in the boxes.

1

Penny sells 12 cups of lemonade for 50 cents each. How much money does she make?

2

A bag of lemons costs $2. Penny buys 3 bags. How much does she spend?

3

Penny has $3.70 in her owl piggy bank. Grandma Rose gives her $5 for helping in the garden. How much does Penny have now?

4

Sailing camp costs $240. Penny has saved $40. How much more does she need?

5

Emma makes 4 pitchers of lemonade. Each pitcher fills 10 cups. How many cups can they sell?

6

Penny decides to give away 1 dollar of every 10 dollars she earns. She earns $30. How much does she give?

7

Challenge: Each cup costs Penny 20 cents to make. She sells it for $1. How much does she keep for each cup?

Spot the Problem

"Problems are gold." Every problem is a chance to help someone. Read each story. What is the problem, and how could YOU help?

Mrs. Lee works long days at the pharmacy. Her dog Cinnamon is home alone all day and keeps escaping because he is bored.

THE PROBLEM: _____

2

If you started a little business, what would it be? Who would it help?

3

Why do you think people are happy to pay for some things?

4

What are you really good at that could help other people?

5

Tell about a time you kept a promise even when it was hard.

6

You get $10. How much would you spend, save and give? Why?

7

Who could our family surprise with kindness this week?

8

What is the difference between wanting something and needing it?

9

What do you think "faithful in little things" means?

10

Penny's first stand went wrong. What do you do when something fails?

11

Grown-ups: tell about your very first job. What did you learn?

12

What could you build or start that would still help people when you're grown up?

Answer Key

For the grown-ups. No peeking!
